MEET SOCIAL MEDIA'S POWER COUPLE:

Brooke & Marco

Brooke Ashley Hall and Marco Hall, internet sensations and influencers, have rapidly risen to stardom with a combined social media following of over 32 million. Their daily lives, dances, pranks, and family adventures have captivated audiences and earned them recognition on platforms like IN THE KNOW and YAHOO. As their popularity soared, Brooke and Marco embarked on a remarkable journey, attending prestigious events such as the 2022 Grammy Awards in partnership with Hilton and making appearances at New York Fashion Week.

Having started from humble beginnings, Brooke and Marco Hall did not grow up in privilege. Prior to their social media breakthrough in 2020, Brooke worked as a nurse while Marco pursued a career as a professional boxer. They began sharing their content consistently on social media platforms, and when the pandemic hit, their TikTok presence skyrocketed, leading to lucrative brand partnerships and online earning opportunities. Eventually, they were able to leave their day jobs and focus on social media careers while homeschooling their children.

Brooke and Marco are based in Las Vegas, Nevada, and are married with two children of their own, Mar'Cannon Hall and Caedon Hall. Additionally, Marco became a stepfather to Brooke's son Braylon, who was born from her previous relationship. The couple is passionate about their charity efforts for pediatric heart diseases and research. They experienced a scare in January 2023 when their son Braylon faced a life-threatening cardiac arrest due to his rare heart condition, Long QT Syndrome. In response, they actively participate in events like the Annual Heart March for Pediatric Heart Children, raising awareness and funds to support families facing similar challenges.

Brooke Ashley Hall is not only an influential figure but also a beauty and lifestyle influencer, a partner of Fashion Nova, and a model. She has also created the widely popular Self Care Digital Notebook, which helps women track and achieve their goals.

Marco Hall, known for his boxing career and association with boxing legend Floyd Mayweather Jr., has fought notable opponents throughout his career. While he is currently inactive in the sport, he continues to pursue his passion as a social media influencer, entrepreneur, and YouTuber.

Together, Brooke and Marco Hall have become a force in the digital realm, inspiring millions with their content, philanthropy, and dedication to their family.

We recently had the opportunity to catch up with the dynamic duo of Brooke Ashley Hall and Marco Hall, and here's what happened:

Could you please tell our readers a brief background about yourself?

We are Brooke and Marco Hall, the Beverly Hall family, and we're fueled by our passion for lifestyle, family, health, wellness, fashion, beauty, and self-care. With our three amazing children, Braylon, Mar'Cannon, and Caedon, we create content that inspires and resonates with others. Our goal is to empower individuals to live their best lives, embracing the joys and challenges of parenthood and maintaining a well-rounded lifestyle. Through our journey, we share valuable insights and relatable experiences to encourage and uplift others on their own paths.

How did you become an international influencer? What's it like to be an influencer?

Becoming international influencers has been a dream come true for us. Sharing our content across platforms has allowed us to reach a global audience. Being influencers is the best career in the world, and we're grateful to do what we love while taking care of our children full-time. It's an incredible privilege and opportunity to inspire others and connect with people worldwide.

What has been your greatest triumph, to date?

Our greatest triumph to date has been navigating through the health concerns of our oldest son. It taught us resilience and the power of unity. Overcoming those tough times together, with our audience's support, is a triumph we cherish. It reminds us of our strength as a family and the unwavering bond we share.

What has been your greatest lesson, and how have you used that lesson in your life?

Our greatest lesson has been to never give up, even when things seem difficult. We believe that when one approach doesn't work, there's always another solution waiting for us. This mindset has allowed us to continuously grow as a family and overcome challenges along the way. It's a lesson we apply in all aspects of our lives, fueling our determination and resilience.

If you could travel back in time and alter one historical event, where would you go and what would you attempt to change?

If we could turn back time, we would begin utilizing social media in 2014 with the knowledge and strategies we gained in 2020. While the experiences and lessons from those years were instrumental in shaping our success in 2020, we can't help but imagine the tremendous impact we could have made if we had the opportunity to apply our 2020 insights to the earlier years.

What do you think you came into this life to learn, and what do you think you came here to teach?

Our purpose in this life is to inspire and empower others through our perseverance and ability to overcome challenges and obstacles. We do this by openly sharing our journey with our audience, highlighting the strength of family and the power of gratitude. Through our experiences, we strive to show others that they too, can overcome adversity and achieve their goals. We believe in the transformative power of sharing our accomplishments and expressing gratitude for what we have received. By sharing our stories, we hope to inspire others to embrace their own strength and achieve their dreams.

What projects are you working on right now?

Currently, we are working on several exciting projects. We are exploring the creation of more inspiring and entertaining family music that resonates with our audience. Additionally, we are in the process of developing a devotional that aims to provide guidance and inspiration for individuals and families.

Furthermore, we have a few television projects in the works, although they are still in the early stages of development. Despite being in the initial phases, we approach these endeavors optimistically and enthusiastically. We are excited to see what the rest of the year holds and eagerly anticipate the progress and growth of these projects.

What would you still like to attempt in your career?

Brooke: One of my aspirations in our career is to establish a family brand that deeply resonates with our audience. I envision creating a brand that reflects the values and principles that are important to our family. Through this brand, I hope to provide our audience with inspiration, guidance, and a sense of community. I want to connect with others on a deeper level and positively impact their lives.

Marco: I share the same vision as Brooke when it comes to our career aspirations. Building a family brand that aligns with our values and resonates with our audience is something I am passionate about. I believe that sharing our journey, insights, and experiences can provide tremendous value to our audience. Making a lasting and meaningful difference through our career is a goal that I am truly dedicated to achieving.

What advice would you give to those hoping to follow in your footsteps?

Brooke: My advice to those hoping to follow in our footsteps is to remember that you never know until you try. Start with yourself and be true to who you are. Embrace your uniqueness and think about how you can share your special qualities with the world in a unique way. Stay consistent in your efforts and build a strong sense of community with your audience. Show them that you genuinely care about them as much as they care about you. By being authentic and connecting with your audience on a personal level, you can create a meaningful impact and inspire others.

Marco: If you want to follow in our footsteps, I advise you to start by focusing on yourself. Understand what makes you special and how you can showcase your uniqueness to the world. Be genuine and authentic in your approach, and let your true self shine through. Consistency is key, so stay dedicated to your goals and consistently produce quality content. Building a community with your audience is crucial. Engage with them, listen to their feedback, and make them feel valued. When you genuinely care about your audience, they will reciprocate that care and support. Remember, your journey may be different, but by staying true to yourself and building strong connections, you can carve your own path to success.

Meet Lola Sofia Swadling, an 11-year-old resident from the eastern suburbs of Sydney. As the eldest child in a family of four, including her younger brother, Lola has already distinguished herself as a compassionate and enthusiastic individual with a passion for making a positive impact on the world.

One of Lola's primary interests lies in environmental sustainability projects, reflecting her deep concern for the planet. Alongside her commitment to saving the Earth, she actively participates in initiatives that promote sustainability. Her dedication to such projects showcases her early awareness and responsibility towards global issues.

Lola's altruistic nature extends beyond her environmental endeavours. Recognised for her kindness and willingness to assist others, she has been appointed as a junior leader through her church. This role not only emphasizes her leadership qualities but also underlines her commitment to serving her community.

Beyond her philanthropic pursuits, Lola finds joy and self-expression in the arts. Dancing, singing, drawing, and painting are among her favourite activities. Lola has been immersed in the world of dance since the tender age of 2, engaging in jazz, tap, and ballet. Additionally, she started gymnastics at just 18 months old, embracing the movements that provide her with a sense of presence and confidence.

Lola's love for the planet and its inhabitants is truly commendable. Her beautiful spirit shines through when she interacts with the elderly, reflecting a genuine connection and a desire to make a positive impact on their lives. Through her involvement with the St. Vincent de Paul Society, she extends her compassion to those in need, showcasing a heartwarming blend of empathy and kindness.

In essence, Lola Sofia Swadling is not just an 11-year-old; she is a young advocate for sustainability, a budding artist, and a compassionate soul dedicated to making a difference in the lives of others. Her story is an inspiring testament to the potential for positive change, even at a young age.

Model & Mode magazine recently caught up with Lola to discuss her journey in the industry so far and here's what went down:

Hi Lola! What's your absolute favourite thing to do when you're not in school?

Listening to music while jumping around my room. I also love to spend time with my family during movie nights, snuggling up with my mom, dad, and brother. Oh, I can't forget my beloved cat, MJ.

You're super into saving the planet! Can you share what you love most about sustainability projects and how you think kids like you can make a big difference?

In my family, we operate a timber and hardware business. You might wonder how this is beneficial for the environment. Well, for every tree we harvest, we, as kids, plant five more in its place in a sustainability plantation we've established up north.

This massive sustainability initiative is a source of pride for my family and me. Our goal is to nurture the growth of trees and contribute to the flourishing of our planet.

Additionally, in my daily life, I've always been actively engaged in cleaning up our living area, ensuring proper recycling practices, and placing items in the correct bins when people leave behind mess and rubbish.

Being a junior leader at the church sounds exciting! Can you tell us about one fun experience you've had helping others?

Originally, that's when a child helps at the church, helping others in understanding the word of the Lord. God's word is very inspiring and fun. The program also involves charitable giving and helping other leaders to ensure everyone is happy learning about God. It's genuinely fun, and I strongly recommend it for anyone who wants to help others.

Dancing, singing, and art - that's amazing! Which dance move, song, or painting are you most proud of creating?

At school, my afternoons are filled with dancing, which is incredibly enjoyable. Collaborating with fellow students in my year group makes the experience even more fun. We help each other understand the dance moves, and the performance nights are the absolute best!

Recently, my favourite artwork project was creating a paper mâché face mask. I incorporated elements that I truly love, such as a turtle (because I love the ocean), a butterfly (a long-time fascination), and musical notes with tiger stripes (reflecting my love for both music and tigers).

Dancing since you were 2! What's your favorite dance move, and why do you enjoy dancing so much?

Dancing keeps you active and moving while enjoying awesome music. Immersing yourself in various beats and rhythms allows you to craft unique dance moves.

I particularly enjoy dancing in a group as it enhances collaborative skills and is fun with friends. However, I also have a special fondness for solo dances. One of my favourite solo performances was at nationals when I was 6, where I danced to "Material Girl." It was a blast, and I had the opportunity to wear pearls, sunglasses, and gloves during the performance. It was an incredibly fun experience.

Can you share a story about a time you felt really good helping someone?

I prepared various foods, such as sandwiches and snacks, for the homeless. Additionally, we organised a sock collection drive for the homeless during the winter.

This initiative had a significant impact as it provided warmth for them and ensured they had dinner for another night.

Furthermore, I have visited numerous nursing homes with both my family and school to engage in conversations, bring laughter, and offer handmade gifts to the residents.

Having a little brother sounds like fun! What's the coolest thing you've taught him or done together?

Spending time with my brother is always fun as we engage in playful activities after school and on weekends. We both share a love for the water, whether it's at the beach or pool, making it a fantastic and fun experience—especially when our dad joins us. And, of course, lots of hugs make these moments even better.

If you could make your own planet, what would it be like, and what kind of creatures would live there?

If I were to design my own planet, it would be populated by all my favourite animals, surrounded only by kind-hearted people. This planet would prioritise safety, free from diseases, and strictly forbid any harm to the environment. Additionally, all my preferred activities and foods would be available—except for olives!

When you draw or paint, what's your favorite thing to create? Animals, people, or maybe something out of this world?

Engaging in painting or drawing, I particularly enjoy creating abstract pieces. During a recent sleepover with my BFF, we collaborated on an abstract artwork, making the process incredibly enjoyable, and the result was amazing. We even concealed the name of the artwork within the piece, adding an extra layer of fun.

Additionally, I love drawing nature, including birds, trees, and rainbows.

Looking ahead to when you're a bit older, what's one big dream you have for when you grow up?

As I get older, my aspiration is to continue designing and channeling my passion for art. My ultimate dream is to experience lasting happiness with my beloved family by my side.

Her ascent to fame was meteoric, marked by her debut hit song recorded at a mere five years old, captivating audiences with boundless energy and displaying her exceptional vocal prowess.

Mandy's impact extends beyond her young years. As a testament to her global appeal, her dance, and vocal talents have left an indelible mark on fans spanning continents. Her single, the infectious Latin-pop fusion titled "Super Duper," soared to prominence, garnering significant attention. Notably, Sweetie High esteemed it as the leading track on their acclaimed New Music Roundup.

Mandy Corrente, a seasoned performer at heart, continues to astonish audiences with her magnetic presence. A standout moment came at the grand stage of the 2022 Skechers Pier to Pier Friendship event, where over 20,000 spectators were left in awe. Mandy's electrifying dance routines, seamlessly melded with a blend of original compositions and iconic covers, captured the hearts of those in attendance.

Mandy's resplendent journey has led her to cross paths with entertainment industry personalities. A memorable encounter with Mario López on "The Ellen Show" spotlighted her burgeoning star power. Her charisma has graced various platforms, including appearances on "The Super Star Hip Hop Harry," features in El Diario Las Américas, Telemundo, and Univisión, among others. The press has also celebrated her presence, with mentions in various publications like El Nuevo Herald, Peekaboo Magazine, Stardom Magazine, Luis Chataing, and many more.

Model & Mode magazine recently had a conversation with Mandy to delve into her journey in the industry, and here's what transpired:

Can you tell us more about yourself? How did you get started in the industry?

My name is Mandy, and I started very young. I was three when I started dancing. I was five years old when I made my first song. It was super fun, and I loved it, so I continued to make more music, and I haven't stopped since 2017.

How did you develop an interest in becoming an influencer and what drove you to pursue that passion on social media?

Social Media is a great tool to put your work out there, so I did, and the first time I went viral, I realized how powerful it is when people love your work. So, I decided to keep going no matter what. I consider myself a young Artist and will love the people who follow me grow with me.

What do you like most about being an influencer?

I love that people saw me when I was a toddler, and I'm still young. I'm only nine, but the people who follow me know me and have grown with me. I appreciate the love, and knowing I have inspired my fans motivates me to do what I love.

In what way has social media changed your life?

Social media has changed my life because my fans and followers can get an inside look at who I really am. I'm not trying to be someone else; you can see that in my daily posts. It has positively impacted my career, and I'm very grateful for the real people who follow my dream with me. The best part is when my followers share how they are achieving their dreams and goals with me. I love my fans!

How does your thought process differ when creating content for Instagram versus content for Facebook?

I post my daily photos, experiences, and videos on Instagram, and on Facebook, I focus more on news and photos. Also, when I post on Instagram, it automatically appears on Facebook, so it's a great and very convenient tool.

“I love that people saw me when I was a toddler, and I’m still young. I’m only nine, but the people who follow me know me and have grown with me.”

What are some of the difficulties of being in the industry?

You have to be consistent. Sometimes staying consistent can be challenging because we are tired in real life or have other responsibilities like homework or chores. Keeping with posting can feel extra hard, but I need to connect with my fans and followers as often as possible.

I look forward to seeing their comments and sharing their dreams with them just as much as they come to my page to see what I am up to. It makes the challenges feel easier when I remember them.

If someone is going to make your life into a movie, who would play you?

“Well, I’m only nine years old and already pursuing my dream of becoming an actress. I would love to portray my life in a movie when I grow older, as I have been recording all my experiences and adventures.”

What are your future plans? Inside your career or out of it.

I will keep making music, having fun, being a kid, and being a role model for many kids that want to pursue their dreams. Nothing is impossible, and everything is about your love for what you do, so never stop and keep going. I will keep singing, dancing, and acting, and now I started to Cheer, so it will surely be an adventure.

UNLOCKING THE SECRETS OF Youthful Skin

Collagen is often described as an important protein that helps to prevent ageing and maintain skin health. It is known as an important protein that plays a vital role in maintaining the structure, elasticity, and integrity of our bodies.

Also referred to as the 'building block' of the skin, collagen forms a significant part of our extracellular matrix and makes up approximately 75% of the dry weight of our skin.

Unfortunately, as important as collagen is, collagen production naturally declines as we age, leading to visible signs of ageing and skin problems such as acne. Because of this, it is thought that by replenishing its production, we may be able to prevent these effects and maintain our overall skin health.

In this article, we will explore the importance of collagen for skin health and the benefits of supplementing our diets with it.

What is Collagen?

Collagen is a protein that is fibrous in nature and provides structural support to various tissues, including skin, bone, cartilage, tendons, and ligaments. It is primarily composed of amino acids such as glycine, proline, and hydroxyproline, which are arranged in a unique triple helix structure. This triple helix structure is what gives collagen its strength, allowing it to withstand tension and stress without breaking.

There are several types of known collagen, but Type 1 collagen is the most abundant in our body. Type 1 collagen is made up of three polypeptide chains, also known as alpha chains, which are intertwined in the unique triple helix structure mentioned above. Each of these chains is made up of amino acids, with a specific sequence of glycine, proline and hydroxyproline repeated throughout.

How do our bodies produce collagen?

Our bodies actually produce collagen through cells called fibroblasts. Fibroblasts are specialised cells found in the second layer of the skin, also known as the dermis, which lies beneath the outermost layer (epidermis). There, fibroblast cells make collagen by assembling amino acids in the correct sequence and repeating it to form its distinct triple helix structure.

However, collagen production in the body is not infinite. Factors such as age, genetics, hormonal changes, UV rays and pollution can impact and reduce the production of natural collagen. Which is why including collagen into our routines is a great way to counteract these factors and maintain collagen levels in our skin.

Collagen for Skin and Acne

Beyond being a vital protein, we need in our bodies, collagen is also essential for maintaining skin health because it gives our skin structure and prevents sagging and wrinkling. It goes even further by helping us retain moisture resulting in a 'smooth', youthful appearance. Because of this, with adequate levels of collagen, the skin can appear plump, firm, and even radiant.

Collagen can also be very beneficial for those of us who suffer from acne. This benefit is often overlooked, but collagen's role in the skin can actually help minimise acne caused by excess sebum, clogged pores and trapped bacteria.

It does this by further strengthening the skin's natural barrier, reducing inflammation and preventing bacteria from entering blocked pores. This can subsequently reduce the severity of acne and even minimise its frequency.

Collagen in skin care vs Collagen in supplements: Which should you choose?

Now that we have had a look at what collagen can do for our skin, let us take a look at the ways in which we can get it into our bodies. Collagen can be introduced into the body in two main ways: The first is topically through skincare products such as creams and serums; the second is through supplements in our diet.

The first method is gaining popularity as many new skincare products claim to boost collagen levels, however there is actually little evidence to support the effectiveness of these products. The main challenge with these products is that because collagen molecules are so large, it is very difficult for them to actually penetrate the outer layer of our skin and reach the dermis. As a result, the benefits of these products can only be considered superficial and short-lived.

Collagen supplements, on the other hand, are specially formulated so that the collagen they deliver can be easily absorbed by the body. These supplements usually consist of hydrolysed collagen also known as collagen peptides, which are collagen molecules that have been broken down into smaller molecules for easy absorption by the body.

Choosing the collagen supplement that is best for you

Collagen supplement benefits range from skin rejuvenation to acne management so finding a product that fits your needs is important.

For people with active lifestyles, collagen protein powders are an excellent solution to easily incorporate collagen into your diet without the need for additional supplement drinks. By adding collagen into your protein drink, you can achieve your health and fitness goals while enjoying the benefits of collagen.

On the other hand, a blend of collagen peptides like those available from The Collagen Co. can be a highly beneficial choice for those looking to combine collagen with collagen-stimulating nutrients to promote overall health and well-being.

Either method will prove more effective than simply using topical collagen products, which, although they have their merits, offer a less effective approach to supporting collagen production than supplements.
